POINTS

Costs	・ The government will have to spend a huge amount of money.
Economic benefits	・ It will boost the economy.
Public safety	・ It will make the country less safe.
Effect on the country	・ It will improve the country's reputation.

解答例

[賛成]

The Japanese government should stage more major events like the Olympic Games because this will be an opportunity to enhance the country's reputation and boost the tourism industry.

① の具体化

Firstly, if the country holds a huge sporting event like the FIFA World Cup, it is broadcast worldwide. If the event is successful with the nation preventing any terrorism, its host country impresses people all over the world, which enables the country to gain the reputation of being a safe country.

② の具体化

Moreover, if the country that stages such an event gains publicity, it surely draws far more tourists from abroad than ever during and even after the event. This helps revitalize the country's economy.

It is for the reasons mentioned above that our country should be ready to host more sporting events.

[反対]

The Japanese government should not stage more major events like the Olympic Games. Hosting large sporting events might appear to offer economic benefits, including infrastructure related to the event and spending by tourists who travel to attend such events. However, overall, the disadvantages outweigh the advantages.

Hosting events often requires expansive infrastructure to move the participants, officials, and fans to and from the venues. Host cities and regions have to spend considerable sums on the renovation and construction of roadways and public transportation systems. However, most of these expenditures leave the host with underutilized facilities, and a large amount of debt. Obviously, the bobsled run is not going to be used for anything else. After the Nagano Olympics, the Japanese government was left with an $ 11 billion debt.

Given this fact, it is a ridiculous idea to host major sporting events. [140 語程度]
