Ken, a Japanese university student, wants to study abroad. However, he feels his English speaking skills are not good enough. Now he is thinking about studying English conversation online. This is one of the websites he found.

MYW English ～English Conversation Lessons Online～

If you'd like to learn to speak English, just try MYW English. We offer only one-on-one lessons. With a PC, tablet or smartphone, you can practice English conversation anywhere. We have thousands of teachers. Most of them are native speakers of English, and the others speak English fluently and have experience of teaching English.

Lesson length : 30 minutes
Lesson fee : 2,000 yen per lesson

1 Lessons are available anytime because we have teachers around the world. Pick a date and time convenient for you, and you'll find teachers available at that time. Select the teacher you want to have a lesson with.

※You can choose the teacher first, but in that case you have to take a lesson on the date and time when that teacher is available.

2 We have lessons to suit your needs and level. We offer well-designed lessons to help you learn to discuss various topics. There are 3 levels: beginner, intermediate and advanced.

※We also offer customized lessons where you can prepare for exams or interviews and so on, or just enjoy talking about topics you are interested in.

3 You can book a lesson from a month to 30 minutes in advance.

4 You can cancel anytime. There will be no cancellation fee as long as you inform us of your cancellation more than 24 hours before the lesson starts.

5 After the lesson, you will get feedback and advice on how to improve your speaking skills.

6 Before your first lesson, you need to take a free trial lesson to have an English skills assessment. The result will help you determine which level is right for you.

Students' Reviews

Jun Kato July 6, 2023

• I always choose Sarah as my teacher because she explains in Japanese when I'm really confused. When I feel confident about my English, I'll ask her not to use Japanese.

Mei Wada July 10, 2023

• I took the first lesson on my smartphone, but the screen was small, so I couldn't see the teacher's facial expressions or gestures very well. I should have used my PC. I felt that the intermediate lesson was too easy for me. So, I'll try an advanced one next time.

次の文章を読み、問い（A～E）に答えなさい。なお、*のついた語は後に注がある。

Young Dikembe Mutombo dreamed of becoming a doctor. He planned to study in the United States and then return home to help the people in his country. He also enjoyed sports, especially soccer. He was a very good soccer player. But his parents wanted him to try basketball. They felt that he had the perfect body for the game.

Many people in the Mutombo family were tall, but no one was as tall as Dikembe. At 13 years old, he was already 7 feet tall and still growing. That was when he first touched a basketball. Initially, Dikembe disliked basketball. He played only because his parents pushed him to do so. Soccer was much more appealing to him.

In Dikembe's first basketball game, he fell down and cut his face. He wanted to quit, but his parents wanted him to keep playing. After many arguments, Mutombo returned to the basketball court. He played on the Zaire national basketball team for two years. However, he still dreamed of becoming a ( 1 ).

Dikembe was a pretty good basketball player, but he was an excellent student. In 1985, he won an academic scholarship to Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. Soon, he was on a plane to the United States.

At first life in the United States was difficult for Dikembe. He knew how to speak several languages, but English was not one of them. He didn't have the money to call his family in Africa. He often felt sad and lonely. During his first year, he did not play on the university basketball team. (2)He focused on learning English. The pressure was intense, but Dikembe did well.

The university's basketball coach spotted the *7'2" Dikembe on the Georgetown campus. He invited him to play on the university team. At first, Dikembe mostly practiced with the team. He rarely played in a game. He made a lot of mistakes, but he trained rigorously. With the help of Georgetown's top-ranked coaches, he made dramatic progress.

Dikembe graduated from Georgetown in 1991. Almost immediately, he became a player for the National Basketball Association (NBA). He exchanged his dream of becoming a doctor ( 3 ) a career as a professional basketball player.

By 1997, Dikembe was a basketball legend. He had won many awards and had a multi-million dollar income. Then one morning he received (4)a phone call that changed his life. His mother had died in Africa. Suddenly ill, she couldn't get to a hospital in time to save her life. Dikembe remembered his dream of becoming a doctor. At that moment, he made a promise to his mother. He would build a hospital in his hometown of Kinshasa.

Over the next ten years, Dikembe continued to play basketball. In 2006, at age 40, he became the oldest player in the NBA. Each year his knees hurt more. At times he wanted to quit. But the memory of his mother motivated him. He saved money for the hospital. He also convinced other NBA players to give money. Finally, in 2007, his sixteenth year in the NBA, Dikembe's dream came true. The Biamba Marie Mutombo Hospital and Research Center opened in Kinshasa.
